

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

NOMINATES HON. JOHN G. HARMAN FOR STATE TREASURER.

Hon. W. T. Creasy in Nominating Speech Cleverly Hits the Capital Crime.

The Democratic State Convention at Harrisburg last Thursday was considered one of the most representative gatherings of the party ever held. When roll call was completed it was found that every county in the state was represented and practically by full quota of delegates.

The Adams County delegates present were those elected at the primaries June 1, Wm. Arch. McLean, Geo. W. Schwartz and Geo. Steering. In addition County Chairman S. Miley Miller and Hon. Chas. H. Duttera were present.

State Treasurer Berry was chosen temporary and permanent chairman of the convention and made a speech defining the political issues of the year in Pennsylvania.

After the Democratic platform to be found in another column, had been adopted, Hon. Wm. T. Creasy placed in nomination in a very clever speech as the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, Hon. John G. Harman, and his unanimous election immediately followed. Mr. Creasy said:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: I arise as a representative of Columbia county to place in nomination a candidate for the office of State Treasurer of Pennsylvania, and to give reasons why he should be nominated, and why the good citizens of the Commonwealth should elect him.

"First, like the distinguished chairman of this convention, he is a polarized Democrat; even more than that, he is and must be a Democratic dynamo of the campaign, transmitting strength, power and leadership to the righteous indignation of an outraged, disgraced and shamed people, that public pillage, private perfidy and official iniquity shall be exposed, condemned and punished.

"Under the administration of the candidate from Columbia county, the Honorable John G. Harman, an egotistical and self-sufficient executive could not with criminal carelessness or in supine negligence permit the State to be plundered by a knavish architect, or a corrupt contractor, but would and will compel him to plead guilty of complicity, or plead imbecility. For we do not forget that he reduced or slaughtered many just appropriations of the State while he lectured the Legislature and the people on his knowledge of the revenues and resources of the Commonwealth. And who now, oblivious of his surroundings and the passing events, talks of crime and treason, while he excuses the criminal and traitor.

"Under John G. Harman, an Auditor General would and will have to obey the law, and observe his oath and audit the bills and accounts of the Commonwealth, and will not have the idiotic audacity to confess his criminal negligence and hope to escape the consequence of his official perfidy.

"Under John G. Harman the State Treasury will not be pillaged even if the Executive is asleep at the switch and the Auditor General dead at his post. There will be no treasurer suspiciously corrupt and contented paying unaudited bills by the millions and pleading 'dementia Pennsylvania'.

"Under the vigorous, capable and honest administration of John G. Harman there will be no parade of parasites or parasites before a legislative committee through innumerable sessions and immeasurable time while the statute of limitations is running for the guilty, where loss of memory, stupidity, corruption, extravagance, fraud, forgery and perjury is confessed and prosecution indefinitely promised and postponed.

"If John G. Harman is elected he will learn and the people will know who prompted the Republican machine to invite and bring the people to see the capitol building last fall and who fraudulently fooled them and shamefully reported that every dollar invested was accounted for and found within its walls.

"The taxpayers will find out who got the stolen millions, as we know that all this money did not go to the greedy architect of infamous memory or to a perfidious contractor, for no man with enough sense to keep out of an institution for the feeble-minded believes that the corrupt politicians controlling the Republican organization did not get the lion's share of this 'Judas money'.

"We must arouse the people of the State. The Democracy must lead a crusade against this abhorrent corruption, it must prosecute these treacherous trustees, it must restore the plunder and punish the plunderer, and this in no blind party spirit, but for the honor and glory of the Commonwealth, that it may be redeemed, regenerated and respected.

"With John G. Harman as our candidate, a trained lawyer, a faithful servant, tried and true, resolute, courageous and pledged to expose official treachery and recover and restore public money stolen, and punish the public thieves who stole it, of high and low degree, to re-establish the good name and fame of this great Commonwealth throughout the land is a mission worthy of any man or party, and we pledge our candidate and our party to lead in this consummation so devoutly to be wished."

The nominee being called for Hon. John G. Harman was escorted to the platform and spoke.

"I thank you for the heartiness of your greeting, as well as for the honor you have seen fit to tender me today. This is not the place nor the time for any extended discussion of the issues of the campaign now before us. At some future time and place that matter can and will be attended to. It is enough to say here that the issues as outlined by our distinguished chairman, Mr. Berry, should be sufficient, in my judgment, to win any fight waged by the people in behalf of honest government. I accept the platform as one around which all friends of good government can safely rally.

As for myself I stand ready to go out on the firing line in defense of the principles of that platform, and pledge you that, if I shall be elected, the affairs of the office of State Treasurer will be administered in the interest of all the people and an honest effort made to see whether that article of the Decalogue, 'Thou shalt not steal,' is in force in Pennsylvania as applied to Capitol contractors and others, and if found to be so, then to ask that justice be administered, not by the 'per pound' or 'per foot' but by the 'per-year rule'."

He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mehling, of Littlestown, and his death is a distressingly sad one. He was in the full tide of young manhood, bright and devoted to the profession he had chosen. He graduated from the High School of Harrisburg in 1902 and same year began his studies at Hahnemann College, Philadelphia. He finished the four year course there last year and won what is considered the highest honor in being selected as a resident physician in the college hospital. He passed the State Board examination with high average. His failing health caused him to give up his hospital appointment and take up the practice at Harrisburg and later to return to his home. The funeral was held on last Thursday, services being conducted by Revs. John Jay Hill, of Littlestown, H. N. Bassler, J. R. Stein and A. M. Stamets, of Harrisburg, and J. S. He was taken ill on a street car in Philadelphia, and assisted to hospital, and died before any of his family could reach him. He was a son of the late Joseph and Eliza Wolfe of Bendersville, lived there many years, marrying Miss Kate Tipton, then residing in Bendersville, now of Carlisle. He attended the funeral of his father at Bendersville about three months ago and seemed to be enjoying perfect health but was taken

He is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Hershey of Highland township; four sisters, Mrs. Samuel Wisler and Mrs. David Brown of Highland township; Mrs. Crawford Warren of Gettysburg, and Ella at home; and six brothers: Charles A. of Franklin township, Samuel of Greensburg, J. Willard, Harry, Laban, and Raymond at home. His parents went out this spring thinking that they would be able to bring him home. They remained there till after the funeral. Funeral services were held last Thursday afternoon, with interment at Upland, California.

Dear brother thou art sleeping,
Within thy tomb so dark and drear,
While for thee thy friends are weeping;
For thee they drop the scalding tear.
Thou shalt no more be in our midst,
And sad are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has from earth passed away.

Howard Snyder, living near Two Taverns met his death on Sunday morning under distressing circumstances. He was in his 21st year and had been sick for some time. He had a sunstroke when ten years old and his health since then has been frail, having the effect to produce melancholy. He had put a gun in the wagon shed some days previously saying he wanted to shoot a dog. Sunday morning the members of the family went to Sunday School at Two Taverns leaving Howard at home. Upon their return he was found dead in the wagon shed and contents of the shot gun had entered the head on the right side near cheek bone and came out on the left side. The gun was at his feet when found and powder marks were on his face and his head must have been close to muzzle of gun when discharged. Whether it was an accident or self destruction will never be known but on account of his illness many believe the latter. The funeral was held yesterday Tuesday with interment at Grace Lutheran Church. He is survived by his father and mother Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Snyder and three sisters.

Claude Lease, 19 years old, of near Bermudian, this county, was drowned in the Coderus on Sunday. He was employed in York and went to the creek with some companions and seeing several boys swimming he took off his clothes and dived into the creek. He arose calling for help and a companion went to his aid and he frantically grabbed his would-be rescuer about the neck. Twice they were carried under the surface and to save himself the rescuer was compelled to beat Lease off. Lease was a good swimmer but it is believed he either struck a rock or was seized with cramps. He is survived by his parents, one sister, Miss Elsie Lease, who is a school teacher in this county, and one brother, Paul, living in the west.

Dr. Chas. Edwin S. McKee died suddenly at Hagerstown on Sunday in his 72d year. He was a prominent physician and business man of Hagerstown. He attended Gettysburg College in the fifties, and graduated from medical department of the University of Maryland. He served as a surgeon in the 3rd Md. U. S. Regt., for three years. Walter of this place, who died suddenly about three months ago. Two sons survive, Edwin of Washington and Donald of Hagerstown.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Martin, wife of Capt. Wm. J. Martin died on Monday night just two days short of her 70th birthday. She was a daughter of the late Jacob Norbeck and in her length of days had been in countless ways a good wife and mother and devout member of the Catholic Church. She had enjoyed unusual good health all her life and was ever active. About five years ago Capt. and Mrs. Martin celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding. The funeral will be held tomorrow Thursday morning from St. Francis Xavier Church, with a solemn mass of requiem by Rev. Father Martin and Rev. Father T. J. Crotty, interment in the Catholic cemetery.

S. MILEY MILLER RE-ELECTED

CHAIRMAN OF THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEE.

W. E. Kapp Re-elected Secretary and Paul Martin was Elected Treasurer.

The Democratic County Committee met at the Globe Hotel in Gettysburg on last Saturday morning. The committee had been elected on June 1 and Chairman S. Miley Miller called meeting a few days following the Democratic State Convention so that an organization could be perfected for the campaign of 1907. Harmony reigned supreme and there was a representative turn out.

Chairman Miller called meeting to order and D. P. Delap was elected Secretary pro tem. Upon roll call Reuben Duttera had a substitution from Germany. Andrew Harman from Huntingdon, Elias Fissel from Littlestown, and W. S. Olewine from Reading, and about sixty of the duly elected committeemen responded.

The first business was an election of a County Chairman. S. Miley Miller was nominated. Mr. Miller called C. H. Richter to the chair, who put the motion and Mr. Miller was unanimously re-elected Chairman by acclamation.

Upon resuming the chair Mr. Miller made a brief speech, saying, "I certainly feel grateful for the honor conferred, I trust I may fill the position with your entire satisfaction and having your full confidence. I want to meet all personally. Credit for success does not belong to the Chairmen but with the Committeemen who bear the brunt of the work. I want to congratulate all here who have helped to do the work in the past. We want to hold Adams county in the Democratic column, for Democratic principles are right as shown in the state and county. Who would have known of the Capitol steal if a Democrat had not uncovered it, and Democrats have done good work in the county at the Alms House. When Democrats become corrupt put them out but as long as they prove trustworthy they are entitled to be supported."

Wm. E. Kapp was re-elected Secretary of the Committee and Paul Martin Treasurer.

W. S. Olewine moved that the Chair appoint a committee of five on resolutions and that all resolutions be presented to such committee in writing and without debate, and motion carrying the following committee was named: W. S. Olewine, of Reading, David Miller, of Hamilton, G. W. Griest, of York Springs, P. A. T. Bower, of Butler, and A. L. Wagaman, of Mountpleasant.

The committee retired and reported the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Resolutions.

The Democratic County Committee of Adams Co. having met to organize for the campaign of 1907 resolve as follows:

We affirm the principles of the platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention and call upon all Democrats and citizens to put the stamp of disapproval upon the Capitol crime with a vote to elect a Democrat over the Treasury Department of the State.

The platform must properly condemn the surreptitious midnight visit to the State Treasury Department of a former State Treasurer, and Adams County Democracy demands the dismissal of Geo. F. Young, clerk in that department who piloted that midnight visit.

The recovery of moneys by the Democratic Directors of the Poor, from former officials of the Alms House, the economical administration of that institution and the decreasing expense of that institution under Democratic administration presents an opportunity to Democrats and all citizens to approve thereof with their votes.

The candidate for State Treasurer, and those chosen at the primaries for the county offices are most earnestly commended to Democrats and all citizens as entirely worthy of their support and votes.

Upon request of J. L. Williams, Treasurer last year, an auditing committee was appointed of C. B. Dougherty, Harry E. Riddemose and W. Howard Dicks, and they reported that they had examined the Treasurer's accounts of money received and also paid out and that they found the account correct as stated with a balance of over $13 due Mr. Williams, having paid out that much more money than he had received.

The committee then adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman.

SOLDIER'S STORY OF BATTLE

WHAT A SOLDIER SEES IN THE THICK OF A FIGHT.

Rushed in July 2nd from Culp's Hill into the Fight at Wheatfield.

I have been trying to recall to mind whether I had a cold or hot breakfast on the morning of July 2nd, 1863 at Gettysburg. I do remember some one calling me to get up. "Important business on hand requiring quick dispatch," said comrade Sommerkamp. That I had something to eat is certain, but I have my doubts whether I had any hot coffee. No drum beat the reveille that morning. Away off in the distance I heard a faint bugle call. As I crawled out from under my blanket and glanced around me, I chanced to be one of the earliest risers. I could see all over the hill great bundles of blankets huddled close together. Every blanket contained a sleeping soldier; every knapsack had a drowsy head on it. Presently the bundles commenced to move, slowly the soldiers rub their sleepy eyes, and gradually, as it were, come to life again. It was the last sleep of many of them. What a kind providence that none of us knew what our fate was to be that day! Alas! "how many that shall never again in all this coming and going world make music upon the threshold!" I now recall the sad, but truthful prophecy of a gallant fellow, a member of the 19th regiment of Maine volunteers, who on this morning called some of his most intimate comrades around him, and bequeathed to each one some article of his limited stock of household goods. Says he: "Now, John, I want you to take my blanket—it is a good one; and, James, you are to have my little frying pan; Jones, you take my tin cup"—and so he gradually gave away all that he had, saying finally: "I shall have no use for any of these things after to-day, as I feel and know that I shall fall in to-day's battle."

"Oh, keep your goods," the boys replied; you are talking foolishness you are too good a man to be killed yet." But the poor fellow seemed determined on carrying out his plans. That afternoon, in the thickest of the fight, he was shot to death.

Orders came to us early in the morning to change our position to "Culp's Hill." So off we trudged up the pike to this now memorable spot. Axes, picks, and shovels were freely distributed among the men. The engineers having laid out for us a line on which we were to construct breastworks, trees were rapidly felled, earthenworks thrown up and trenches dug. Huge logs were placed on the top of these earthenworks, and by noon we had quite a formidable obstruction reared.

Every company in a regiment contains one or two and sometimes more men who manage in some way to shirk their duties, and yet who seem to go unpunished. We had just such a fellow in my company named "Millard." He had, previous to entering the army, followed a circus—running a lemonade stand, where you could purchase that fascinating drink, "red circus lemonade." He had a peculiar talent for making money, and displayed a great ingenuity in getting hold of his comrades' small change. I never saw him in a battle, never knew him to work on any fatigue party, go on picket, or do anything but loaf and wheedle money out of the soldiers. This morning he made his appearance at almost noon, having in his arms a large lot of country pies, which he soon sold at fabulous prices. And such pies! They say the shortening was put in crossways! Whew! but they were tough; but then you know a soldier can eat most anything. I believe some of our fellows could digest a ten-penny nail. I had one chap in my company that ate a pound of store cheese before breakfast, and then turned in and made away with his usual morning meal, and still he lived.

Thursday afternoon July 2d passed in comparative silence, their being but little firing. But the troops had not been idle. Breastworks and rifle pits had been thrown up and defenses made of the fences and stone walls. Ammunition had been distributed, supplies brought up, and all preparations made for the impending contest. Our line of battle on Culp's Hill was not disturbed at any time during the forenoon or up to about 5 o'clock. We could distinctly hear the crash of artillery and rattle of musketry of Longstreet's Confederate corps and General Sickles' command, the 3d corps, but we were totally ignorant of how the battle was going, whether for or against us. Neither could we see any part of the battle-field. We were in a dense woods, and out of sight of everything but just what was immediately in our front. I judge it was somewhere near 5 o'clock in the afternoon when the command was given for us to fall in and march. As we filed out of the breastworks, shells commenced to drop uncomfortably near us. The rear of our regiment had hardly gotten away when our sergeant-major was struck on the thigh by a bursting shell. The limb was almost torn from the body, and in a few minutes he had passed into eternity. He was a fine, handsome soldier, so young and promising—only about 19 years of age. His father was the adjutant of our regiment. He could not leave his position. The son was carried to the hospital, and with a sad and heavy heart the grief-stricken father followed with our line.

Crossing Rock Creek, we soon reached the Baltimore pike, making our way across the fields towards the fighting line of Sickles' corps. The battle was raging with terrific force in our front; the wounded and demoralized were streaming to the rear and through our ranks. It was a sad story some had to tell: "My regiment is all out to pieces," said one badly frightened man; "I am the only man left of my company." Said another: "It is no go boys; they are too many for us; no use of your going ahead." Evidently, if we had relied upon the information given by these laggards, we would have felt like retiring. But glancing away off to the left beyond, we could, as the smoke lifted at intervals, see the gallant boys in blue, their ragged line still firing and holding on. Batteries of artillery were rushing to the front, the drivers lashing their horses and urging them on to the desired position. Orderlies, aids and mounted officers were riding in all directions at breakneck speed, and everything had the appearance of being pretty well mixed up. But we cannot judge of how the battle is going by being very far in the rear; it is right there that you see the most disorder and demoralization. Strict orders had been given on this day to allow no one to go to the rear from the line of battle, unless sick or wounded, and a provost guard had been stationed in the rear of the battle line to prevent all straggling. One fellow, who was making rapid progress away from the fight, was halted by one of the guards and asked if he was wounded. "No," said the soldier. "Well, are you sick?" said the guard. "No, I am not sick." "Well, what is the matter with you then?" "Now, comrade, I'll tell you: I am neither wounded nor sick, but I am terribly demoralized."

I saw one fellow wounded in the arm, carrying on his back a soldier who lost his foot. Oh! the heroes of this terrible battle. What volumes could be written of the countless deeds of heroism alone at Gettysburg! How expressive these words of the immortal Lincoln in his memorial address at the dedication of this battle field: "Let us here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain." The battle was a most desperate one. Troops on both sides fought as they never fought before. Some regiments were almost wiped out of existence. During the hottest part of the fight the Second South Carolina regiment attempted to capture Captain Clark's New Jersey battery. The 141st Pennsylvania coming up in time, poured such a volley into the South Carolina troops that they were almost annihilated. The 141st regiment lost out of 200 men 152, the color-bearer and all the color guard being killed or wounded. When the roll was called after the battle, of Company K but one man responded. The color-bearer of this regiment, whilst falling back, with but 20 men, was hailed by General Sickles, who called out, "Col. Muddell, for God's sake hold on." The Colonel replied with tears rolling down his cheeks, "General where are my men?" A moment after Sickles was struck with a bullet, his leg fractured, and finally amputated. Captain Bigelow's 9th Massachusetts battery, fought until the enemy were within 25 feet of him, and then retired with the loss of 31 men and 80 horses. General McLaws (Confederate) bears testimony to the admirable manner with which this battery was served. He says: "One shell from it killed and wounded 30 men out of a company of 37." Darkness ended the battle. Over 15,000 killed and wounded, in about three hours, was the story of this day's bloody work.

And now the surgeon's work is at its height. He has laid off his green sash and the tinselled coat, his sleeves are rolled up. It is horrid work! What a history could these faithful surgeons write! A soldier fairly riddled with bullets, like one of our battle-flags, lay on a blanket gasping for breath. "George," said a comrade and a friend with one arm in a sling, and who was going home on a furlough—"George, what shall I tell them at home for you?" "Tell them," said he, "that there is hardly enough left of me to say 'I,' but—hold down here a minute—tell Kate there is enough left of me to love her till I die." George got his furlough that night, and left the ranks forever. Shot away all but his heart, that still beat true.

"Onward they marched in battle array. Marched up to death's open portals: Over hills and fields the Blue and the Gray. Marched through death's open portals: Then, true and tried, Stood side by side In the ranks of the world's immortals."

GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR INDIGESTION.

Interesting Statement by The People's Drug Store.

When a man comes into this store and calls for any particular indigestion remedy, we always give him what he asks for, but in case he leaves it to us we usually recommend Pepsikola tablets.

Here is a preparation we have been selling right over the counter for years, and from actual observation we know it must do good, and really does cure indigestion and dyspepsia or there would be a steady stream of people coming back for their "money," as every 25 cent box is sold with the understanding that you must be decidedly benefited or there is nothing to pay.

You simply try Pepsikola tablets with the understanding that they will steady your nerves, improve your appetite, relieve wind belching, coated tongue, sour stomach, fullness after eating, weakened energy, and other symptoms of indigestion or The People's Drug Store is ready at any time to pay back your money without the least argument.

TOOTHsome RECIPES

APPROVED METHODS OF COOKING ONIONS.

Young Plants May Be Served on Buttered Toast Like Asparagus—When Escalloped Vegetable Is Delicious—Mint Vinegar.

To Cook Young Onions.—Peel, drop in cold water and let them soak 15 minutes. Cook tender in boiling salted water and serve on slices of buttered toast like asparagus. Season with salt, pepper and a little butter.

Onion Soup.—This is wholesome and "tasty." Slice two or three large onions and fry yellow in butter or clarified drippings. When soft add three tablespoonfuls flour and stir until cooked and frothy. Now add slowly a pint of boiling water, stirring until smooth and slightly thickened. Have ready three potatoes boiled and mashed and add to them a quart of milk that has been brought just to the scalding point. Put the potato and onion mixture together, season with salt and pepper, let it get very hot, then press through a strainer into a hot tureen. Sprinkle over the top a little parsley minced fine and a handful crisp croutons.

Escalloped Onions.—Peel half a dozen large onions and lay in cold water for an hour. Cut in thick slices and put on to cook in boiling salted water. Boil ten minutes, drain and cover again with boiling water. Cook until they are tender, but still firm. Have ready a pint of rather thin cream sauce. Butter a baking dish, put in a layer of onions, then one of the sauce and sprinkle with bread sauce and crumbs and so on until the dish is full, having the last layer of buttered crumbs. Bake in a quick oven and brown. A little cheese may be used with each layer of crumbs, if desired. There should be enough of the thin cream sauce used to show generously about the onions when served.

Mint Vinegar.—Fill loosely a large wide-mouthed bottle with the mint leaves. Pour in vinegar, cork securely and let it remain for two or three weeks. Then pour off the vinegar into another bottle and keep well corked until needed. This is a capital substitute for fresh mint when the latter cannot be obtained.

Cowslip Vinegar.—An excellent vinegar is also made from cowslips (primula). Put one quart of the pips into a jar with three pints white wine vinegar. Cork tightly and let it remain for ten days. Strain, bottle and seal. An excellent addition are a few sweet briar tips—three or four to two cups of the liquid.

Vegetable Cutlets.—Boil separately until tender a half dozen French carrots, a turnip and an onion. Mash thoroughly and mix with a cupful cooked lentils drained perfectly dry. Season with minced parsley, salt and pepper, and a beaten egg and bread crumbs to bind together. Form into croquettes, cutlet shaped, dip in beaten egg, roll in fine crumbs and fry in deep fat. Garnish with parsley and serve hot. A little curry powder may be added to the seasoning.

ACCOUNT BOOK A NECESSITY.

Without It, There is Bound to Be Waste in Household.

Unless one keeps a record of the way in which the pennies go, the expense account has a disagreeable habit of swelling larger than the income.

With an account book a housekeeper knows at a glance just how much meat, flour, or other articles of food it has taken for the table during the month, and can compare with the same month of the year before.

In this way one can easily tell if expenses are still on the same level or if they are on the increase, and the cause may be readily discovered. Money left loose in a purse or bag goes, but no one can make an accurate account of it at the end of the month. The little account book with everything down in black and white keeps business methods in the buying of supplies, and is a great factor for economy.

Spotless Linen.

The following recipe for the washing mixture will insure clothes being beautifully clean and white without a great amount of rubbing. Get two pounds of common soda, one gill of sweet oil, one gill of turpentine, one pint of ammonia. Dissolve the soda and pour into two-gallon bottle, add the sweet oil and turpentine and, lastly, the ammonia. Shake well together, and then fill the bottle nearly full with cold water; shake again and it is ready for use. One gill of this mixture put into the boiler when the clothes are boiling will surprise anyone who has not tried it before. It leaves no smell, is economical and does the clothes no injury.

Chicken in Rice Cups.

This is a delicious luncheon dish, and also is an economical way of using small quantities of leftovers. To prepare it, line small buttered cups with soft-boiled rice a half inch in thickness. Fill the center with cooked chicken, finely minced, delicately seasoned and slightly made moist with cream sauce or chicken broth. Onion juice and minced celery may be added if desired. Cover the top with a layer of the rice and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Then invert the cups carefully on a heated platter and serve at once with any preferred sauce.

A few weeks of rain, or a month of cold weather out of season, cannot mar the business of a store like ours; it's roots are too deep in the heart of our community. Gov. Johnson, of Minnesota, in a recent speech said, speaking of the wheat crop, "The backward season let the roots get a good growth and the wheat will be all the better for it." The Sales of our Two Stores Have Never Been so Large. Of course there were some lots of goods, that were bought for hot weather selling, which did not go out as rapidly as they likely would have done—yet other things sold instead—and we are ready for the Present Seasonable Weather with a Stock Contracted for Months Ago, before the crop of advanced prices on most goods.

Our store is particularly well ventilated, and is cooler in all hours of the day than out of doors.

PROTHONOTARY

WM. A. TAUGHINBAUGH

DIRECTOR OF POOR

COUNTY SURVEYOR

of Reading township.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

The Democratic ticket complete now in State and County deserves the support of all citizens interested in good government. The characters of the candidates are most estimable. Business reasons should elect Mr. Harman no matter who his opponent might be. It would be well in every state no matter what party is in power if the State Treasury was held by the opposing party. When the Treasurer, Auditor-General and other offices are all held by same party, then a condition exists in which it is possible for the capitol crime to be committed, and this could never have happened if a man of an opposing political party held the Treasury. The people can protect themselves with such service in the expenditure of seventy millions every two years by the election of Mr. Harman.

GUISE'S RECORD.

The record of a faithful Legislatureman is hidden in the hundreds of pages of the Legislative Record that it is quite a task to find out what he did and did not do. When such a search has been made for the record of Hon. David H. Guise, Adams County's representative in the last Legislature, it will be found that Mr. Guise and his county have a right to be proud of a clean, honest, faithful and highly efficient service on the part of our representative.

He gave his hearty support to the two-cent R. R. fare bill, the trolley freight and eminent domain bills, the Creasy trust buster, Creasy anti-discrimination, Creasy taxing express companies, Dinmore railroad commission bill. The bill prohibiting the consolidation of competing lines of railroads. To require railroads to maintain safety gates at street crossings. To require sleeping cars to be lighted by electricity. Meat inspection bill requiring the State veterinarian to appoint inspectors whose duties will be to inspect all meat offered for sale or slaughtered in the state. Public health bill prohibiting the manufacture or sale of adulterated, misbranded or poisonous foods and confections. A bill to regulate the sale and manufacture of commercial fertilizers, which died in the Senate. Bill prohibiting officers, employees or agents of any railroad company operating in this State who have charge directly or indirectly of the distribution of cars to shippers, to own or have any interest in any operated coal property or in the stock of any mining or manufacturing company along the line of such railroad. The teacher's salary bill making the minimum salary $40 per month for those holding a provisional certificate and $50 for those holding a professional, permanent or Normal school certificate. To provide for the discharge of sureties upon bonds of trustees, guardians, etc. The bill giving Pennsylvania soldiers pensions. The McCord and North bills providing for a vote of the people for U. S. Senators.

Mr. Guise supported all measures taxing corporations for the purpose of relieving local taxation. Labor bills calculated to relieve the wage earners. The civil service bill which failed in a tight fight to get it on the calendar and the fight against the bucket shop. He opposed the deer bill and hunter's license bill. All "rang" measures, the eminent domain bill for light, heat and power companies. The exemption from taxation of forest reserves strenuously advocated by the Pennsylvania Railroad. He opposed all increase salary bills, insurance bill, building and loan association bills and all bills containing "snakes."

Democratic Platform.

The platform adopted by the Democratic state convention is as follows: "Realizing that the fate of men, commonwealths and nations are guided by the will of an all-wise providence, and that all prosperity, whether financial, commercial or moral, is finally dependent upon honesty, and convinced that good government is based upon strict compliance with law, we challenge the wisdom of continuing

Republican rule in Pennsylvania and for an aggressive Democracy declare these principles:

"Knowing that the framers of the constitution intended that the auditor general and state treasurer should always be checks upon each other in the disbursement of public funds, we ask all honest men to aid that intent by electing as state treasurer one who is politically in opposition to the present incumbent of the auditor general's office, so that the work commenced by a Democratic state treasurer may be continued and finished and so that at least one member of the board of public grounds and buildings, annually expending vast sums, shall not be of the majority party. We declare the dominant issue before the people of this commonwealth to be, whether dishonesty in public place shall cease, or be continued; whether graft shall be sustained or rebuked and punished.

"Believing this to be the vital question in this state, we are not to be led astray by the perfunctory endorsement of any candidate for president in 1908 or the declamatory laudation of the present incumbent of that high office. "These fraudulent devices" in the Republican platform, intended to befog the issue, and the praises of the fifty-ninth congress, can only be equalled by the condemnation, so richly deserved, of almost all high officials in the state government of Pennsylvania.

"We recall with shame and reproach the official acts in regard to the building and furnishing of the state capitol, of governors, state treasurers, auditor generals and superintendents of public grounds and buildings, and with special notice condemn the conduct of a representative in congress, who whilst drawing his salary at Washington was helping to loot the treasury at Harrisburg. We suggest that his resignation would be a fitting end of his congressional career.

"We congratulate the taxpayers of the state that, by the election of a Democratic state treasurer two years ago, it was made possible to discover and thoroughly reveal the enormous amount of public funds unlawfully expended for the capitol building and its trimmings, and ask all independent citizens who have regard for their financial welfare, and the honor of their state, to aid us in completing what has been so ably commenced under Democratic administration.

"We hereby pledge the party to an insistence on a searching investigation of the auditor general's department, which has been shown to be no less corrupt in the management than those now under the searchlight. We condemn the majority in the last legislature for refusing to pass the joint resolution demanding an investigation of that department and the failure of the dominant party to assist the demand of an outraged people that all the lids be lifted.

"Noting that the Republican platform disclaims any responsibility for the capitol graft, we claim and assume all responsibility for the discovery and complete disclosure of that graft, and further claim that the only means of securing complete restitution of the loot and punishment of the looters, is to elect a second Berry, a man who knows no party in the performance of his duty, except that of honest citizenship, and who when graft and greed shamefully disgrace the state, is alert to detect and discover wrong-doing and capable of punishing wrong-doers.

"With the proof in hand so clear that all honest men are convinced of the guilt of many in high places, we demand of the present administration speedy prosecution of the accused, both civilly and criminally, so that the taxpayers may regain their own, the honor of the state be vindicated, and finally that no guilty man may escape.

"We hold that taxation, in whatever form imposed, is justifiable only to the extent that may be needful for the maintenance of government honestly and economically administered within the sphere of its legitimate powers: that we insist that a large surplus in the treasury, caused by unnecessary taxation, has heretofore allowed of this in the various departments to speculate with public funds and to use the cash of the state with favored banks and individuals for political and personal use, and for the gains of favored contractors; and we further declare our determined opposition to all schemes of taxation that bear equally on individuals or interests, or that tend to increase the profits of one class at the expense of any other.

"We emphatically insist that had it not been for the illegitimate use of public funds by Republican officials, there would have been no necessity for ignoring the claims of veterans of the civil war and for reducing appropriations to charitable institutions.

"While we recognize the right of capital, within this commonwealth in all legitimate lines of enterprises to combine, for the increase of business, for enhancement of profit by enlarging productive capacity, and decreasing the cost of production, thus lessening the price to the consumer, yet when such combinations in its purpose or effect, creates or tends to create a monopoly in its production, to restrain trade, or to stifle competition to increase cost to the consumer, or to control the market for the labor it employs, it violates the spirit of our laws, because inimical to public welfare and peace, and should be so regulated, controlled or prohibited by law as to completely protect the public interests.

"We believe that by wise legislation, rigidly and impartially enforced against such combinations, their evil tendencies can be prevented without needless destruction to the capital upon which labor must depend for employment and compensation: that in this matter the path of safety lies in rigid, honest and impartial regulation, control and prohibition, rather than in ruthless destruction which may involve the greatest loss upon the innocent.

"Within these principles we favor the most rigid regulation of trusts and combinations that wisdom can devise under laws of universal application and impartial enforcement.

"We demand an honest ballot for honest voters and condemn the party in power for refusing to so amend the ballot laws that the true intent of the voter may be registered without intimidation or interference and the ballot so simplified that all opportunity for fraud or coercion be taken from the political boss or his henchmen.

"Recognizing the growing demand of the people for the registration of their choice for United States senator, we condemn the Republican leaders for the defeat of the McCord bill, which permitted the voters thus to express their preference at the primary election by a popular vote.

"The party in power deserves no credit for its tardy repentance in the passage of legislation demanded by the Democratic party and enforced by popular indignation, but we note with dismay that in spite of the earnest efforts of Democratic senators and representatives, railroads are prohibited from acquiring competing trolley lines under a penalty of only five thousand dollars, and that competing railroads, which consolidate, in violation of the constitution, are punished by the ridiculous fine of one thousand dollars, and further, that discrimination in freight charges or facilities for the transportation prohibited by section 7, Article XVII are misdemeanors punishable by a fine of five hundred dollars.

"A servile and obedient legislature has made the violation of the constitution a matter of ludicrous price and punishment.

"Demanding as we always have, equal rights for all, and special privileges for none, we condemn the dominant party for this violent breach of faith to the public, and insist upon effective legislation in this regard.

"Knowing that two years of honest Democratic administration in the treasury department of this state, has done more for true reform than all the specious promises of reform with in the party, by so-called Republican leaders we again call upon all, irrespective of party lines to aid the cause of civic righteousness and honest administration by the election of a Democratic treasurer for this great commonwealth.

"We believe and submit to the people of Pennsylvania, irrespective of party, that in the present state of affairs no man owing allegiance or indebted for nomination to the Republican organization should be elected to the office of state treasurer.

"There must be no step backward, the good work begun by Treasurer Berry should go forward until every dollar dishonestly taken from the treasury, be returned to the commonwealth, until every mystery connected with the capitol fraud be fully learned and, until every criminal in-

involved in the scandle be prosecuted, convicted and imprisoned.

"The conviction of the guilty and the recovery of the money of which the state has been defrauded are both likely to be defeated if the books and records which surreptitiously and at midnight were recently sought by a former state treasurer, should now, by the ballots of the people, be turned over to representatives of the Republican organization."

FLOWERS IN WINDOW-BOXES.

Pleasure for Those Who Have No Garden or Porch.

To the flower-lover, who has no garden or porch, window-boxes offer excellent opportunities. Nothing can give more pleasure to one who lives in a flat or house. If you have several boxes to fill, and want something new, try filling each with flowers of one color, with just enough of some other to relieve the monotony. A charming box is one filled with either pink or red geraniums. These are easy to grow, and they bloom constantly. A box is also attractive when filled with yellow nasturtiums of different shades, and of the climbing and dwarf varieties. Petunias, sweet alyssum, mignonette, heliotrope, and many other flowers may also be grown.

The chief requirement for boxes is that they be of sufficient size to hold a quantity of dirt that will not dry out too quickly. Filled with a rich, loamy soil that holds moisture well, and watered regularly, good results should be obtained. Too much sun is as harmful as too little.

Any carpenter can readily make a box to fit the desired place. If one must think of economy, there are many packing boxes which are the right size for the purpose. They should, however, be fortified in the middle with cross cleats, but need not be lined. They should be well painted, dark green, or a color to match the house. It is a good plan to fill the boxes with about two inches of broken charcoal before putting in the soil.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

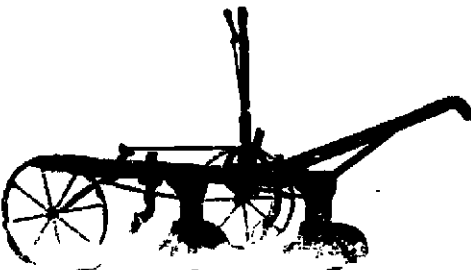

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate woman's organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Old-Timer Tells of Tough Experience in a Western Texas Town Where the Country Was Wide Open.

The passing of gambling in Texas brought out reminiscences of the early days when the games were run wide open in many of the towns of the state. Jess Fry of San Antonio, who was in the front during the construction of the Southern Pacific through the western part of Texas, tells this story.

"In 1884 I was railroad and express agent at a new station, which was then the end of the line of the Southern Pacific. This experience of mine happened on a monthly pay day. Every workingman in camp had money. Most of them had the gambling fever, and leeches from all over the west were on hand to get their share of the dinero.

"On this particular day the most notorious of the professional gamblers in camp was like Winters, who had come over from Tombstone, Ariz. Along in the evening Winters and a few others started a poker game in a tent which was pitched just at the edge of a steep hill. When I got through with my duties as agent I went up to take a look at the game.

"I was invited to take a hand, and that being about the only way to pass away the time I sat in. The other players were sitting upon empty powder kegs and boxes, and I went to the commissary tent near by and got an empty flour barrel, which I used for a seat.

"The game progressed without incident for an hour or two, and then there occurred the biggest rumpus I was ever in. There were five or six players besides Winters. Among them was a half-breed Mexican who had come over from Mexico with a reputation as a killer.

"He was, like Winters, a professional gambler. Winters was acquainted with this half-breed Mexican. He took him to be a foreman of a construction gang, probably. Had he known his desperate character, I don't believe he would have been so quick to precipitate the trouble.

"The pot was a large one. The half-breed Mexican and Winters caught match hands. Both men claimed the pot. Each started to reach for it about the same instant, each drawing his gun with his right hand. They fired at each other simultaneously.

"That was only the beginning of the melee. The light was knocked out, and in the darkness the flash of pistols could be seen. I am old enough now to admit that I was scared.

"The first thought that occurred to me was that I must seek some place of safety. Why not crawl into the empty flour barrel? I got into the barrel all right, and was lying there trembling when one of the gamblers gave the barrel a kick to get it out of his way and sent it beneath the flap of the tent and away it went, rolling down that steep hill, with me inside of it.

"That hill was nearly half a mile long, and the barrel went tumbling down it, bumping over stones and crushing through the desert vegetation. Toward the end of the declivity it was going at a terrific speed.

"I suffered untold agony during that terrible ride. I could not get out. I was rolled over and over at the rate of a hundred times a second. It seemed to me. It happened that there were no nails protruding through the barrel. Had there been I would have been punctured full of holes.

The barrel finally came to a standstill and I crawled out. I was bruised all over, but managed to pull myself up the steep hill to the railroad station. I had escaped from the scene of the shooting, but I felt that I would probably have fared better had I remained there.

"The shooting affray resulted in the killing of Winters, the half-breed Mexican and another gambler."—N. Y. Sun.

Norfolk's Population.
A New Yorker who had attended the opening of the Jamestown exposition was strolling along City Hall avenue in Norfolk the following evening. He had become impressed with the fact that Norfolk is booming. On every hand large and substantial buildings greeted his eye.

"I wonder how many people there are in this burg," he murmured to himself. Soon he came upon an aged darky. The New Yorker stopped him and said: "How many people live in Norfolk?"

The darky looked at the stranger a few moments and then replied thoughtfully: "Well, cap'n, dere's 'sposed to be 'bout 50,000 peoples 'yeah, countin' de white folks."

Medicine of Bamboo Sap.
In India the sap of the female bamboo is used for medicinal purposes. "Tabasheer," or "banslochan," is sold in all Indian bazars, as it has been known from the earliest times as a medicinal agent. It is also known in Borneo and was an article of commerce, with early Arab traders of the east. Its properties are said to be strengthening, tonic and cooling. It has been analyzed and has been shown to consist almost entirely of silica, with traces of lime and potash. From its remarkable occurrence in the hollows of bamboos the eastern mind has long associated it with miraculous powers.

PREROGATIVES OF RANK.

Why Jed Resigned as Chief of Brambleville Fire Department.

The Brambleville postmaster looked out with a frown from his barred window at the returned traveler who was questioning him. "I can't go out of this pen of mine till the mail's distributed," he said, with resentment. "The new rules and regulations don't hardly let a man breathe. What was it you asked me about the fire department?"

"No, Jed isn't chief any more. That's all owing to the city folks that come here now and try to run our whole village.

"There was a little spark of a fire down in one of their cottages, and because our fire department didn't get there quite as quick as they expected they 'instituted inquiries'—I'm giving you their own words—and when they found the two ladders had been in Jed's orchard, and that had made a little delay, they rained such a lot of talk that Jed resigned.

"As he said, if the chief of the fire department hasn't got the right to borrow a couple of ladders from the engine house when he needs 'em to pick his fruit, who has?"

"But you can't reason much with these city folks. They're a kind of a high-handed lot."—Youth's Companion.

CAN'T SING AND LOOK PRETTY.

That is Why One Woman Has No Vocal Ambitions.

"Of course it's nice in some ways to have a beautiful voice, but I'm glad I don't sing," said the pretty woman as she applauded perfunctorily after the soprano solo. "Yes, I am fond of music, but that is sufficient. If I could be tempted to sing, what would happen to my good looks? I think it is not silly for a woman to wish to look well at all times.

"A woman never looks pretty or beautiful when she sings. She invariably twists her mouth to one side and makes her face appear crooked. I have keenly observed the last ten singers I have heard, and every one of them opened her mouth on a bias. I haven't the slightest idea why they do it, unless the muscles of one side of the face are stronger than those on the other, and in the effort to sing the stronger muscles do the most work. I suppose men do the same thing, but generally they wear mustaches to cover their mouths.

"If one shuts one's eyes a song always is enjoyed more, for there is something disturbing about a pretty woman deliberately making herself a fright by stretching her mouth in song."

The Window of Refuge.

Scarcely a single tourist who drives down the stately Prado, in Havana and turns off into the fashionable Malecon along the sea knows the significance of the ever open window which he notices in an ancient building on his left. For centuries it has been the custom to leave this window open day and night for the reception of stray infants, of those poor little unfortunates born under such circumstances that their parents cannot claim them. They are left on the window sill, chiefly during the silent hours of the night, and when found are taken care of by various priests, who bring them up in the Catholic faith and usually urge them to become priests or nuns. Very few ever discover their rightful parents.

Lesser of Two Evils.

The burglar's wife was in the witness box and the prosecuting attorney was conducting a vigorous cross-examination.

"Madam, you are the wife of this man?"

"Yes."

"You knew he was a burglar when you married him?"

"Yes."

"How did you come to contract a matrimonial alliance with such a man?"

"Well," the witness said sarcastically. "I was getting old and had to choose between a lawyer and a burglar."

The cross-examination ended there.

—Tallor.

His Shortcoming.

"No, sir," said a clerk to his employer, "I don't think there's anything unreasonable in my asking for an increase of salary. You may remember that you promised me a rise when I had been with you a year."

"I know I did," rejoined the employer, "but didn't I make it conditional upon your having given me every satisfaction?"

"And in what way, sir, haven't I given you satisfaction?" asked the clerk.

"In what way?" replied the employer, with a show of anger. "Do you think you are satisfying me in asking for an increase of salary?"

DEEP-BREATHING IMPORTANT.

It Strengthens and Develops the Lungs, Overcoming Weak Tendencies.

Deep breathing, that is, taking long, full breaths right down into the lungs, cannot be practiced too often in the open air, and the clearer and purer the air the deeper you should breathe. It will seem a hard task at first, but one will soon find it pleasant, and the results will be apparent in straighter shoulders, better developed chests, clearer skin and sweeter breath. This method of breathing is the real "elixir of life," and better than any youth-restorer on the market.

In a short time you will be breathing correctly, awake or asleep. It is to be remembered that deep breathing also fills out sunken and hollow cheeks, clears the lungs and reduces the abdomen.

It is a comparatively easy task to teach children who have not acquired fixed bad habits, whose clothing admits of perfect freedom, how to breathe properly. The habit of deep breathing is formed quickly, and in normal conditions is maintained through life.

The weak, who have cramped their lungs and relaxed all the breathing muscles, will find that the formation of the new habit requires persistent daily practice, but when it once is established they will have health and vigor.—Physical Culture.

MIND A TELEGRAPH.

How Sympathetic Messages Are Passed Between Distant Friends.

Are you a sensitive? There is no doubt that some persons are so organized as to make natural sensitives. They have remarkable intuitive power, which means that they receive impressions easily. Supposing two sensitives to be closely related to one another or drawn together by a bond of sympathy, and supposing them to be in different parts of the world, and the life of the one to be in danger, the first thought he would project into space would be for his distant friend. If that friend is actively engaged at the time the message may be lost, but if he happens to be in a passive state his brain will receive some impression, clear or confused, which will make him think of the absentee and render him anxious, as if something had gone wrong with him. Such messages are more common at night, because we are less preoccupied than during the day. By means of this wireless telegraphy an image is produced on the brain which is projected outwards, causing the absent friend to be seen as if in body, and even the actual circumstances of his dangerous position may be produced. Thus saith Dr. Bernard Hollander, of London.

Brains.

Famous brains are of four sorts. The lowest group contains the minds that are stimulated greatly by alcohol, tea and other drugs by impressions derived from the senses; the second group contains the infant prodigies, whose intellectual powers wane in middle age; the third group contains the pathological cases usually terminating in insanity; the fourth and highest group is that of true geniuses, whose powers remain unimpaired until old age. This is Haeussmann's classification.

Spitzka has come to the conclusion that men eminent in exact sciences, like astronomy and mathematics, have the greatest average brain weight. Next come the men of action, including statesmen and artists, after these come the biologists, geologists and other representatives of the descriptive sciences.

Production of Oil.

Although the production of crude petroleum in America is making enormous strides every year, the bulk of this comes from new territories which yield heavy oils containing little or no spirit. In fact, the fields which have in the past supplied the world with petroleum spirit and high-class illuminating oils are, it is said, failing, so much so that the center of production is no longer in the eastern states, but lies equally between the gulf states and California. Recent work in the midcontinental fields shows, however, that there is a prospect of the supply of high-grade oils being increased.—Engineer.

Stage Murder in Turkey.

On one point the Turkish censor of the drama is inflexible—there shall be no murder committed on the stage. This is in order to prevent corruption by evil example. Consequently the dramatic effect of many plays is somewhat marred by the manner in which principals destined to be murdered are rushed off the stage, and, after receiving the fatal thrust out of sight of the audience, stagger back from the wings to sing their death songs.

BETWEEN THE HOURS

By JOHN F. DILLON.

(Copyright, by Dally Story Pub. Co.)

The blue Swiss clock struck nine.
The cloud on the domestic horizon was in plain view of anyone that cared to look.

"Are you quite through with heroics?" asked the man. He carefully folded his napkin and, leaning with both elbows on the table, sat staring in the face of the woman opposite, a cynical smile on his lips.

The woman bit her lip nervously
and endeavored to repress the tears
that showed in her gray eyes.

"Allowing for the feminine tendency toward the hysterical," he began,
"I believe you have stated our position
quite clearly, and I might add, Louise,
that it is better we should come to an understanding here and now. Do you follow me?" His voice was cold and even.

"Yes," exclaimed the girl, hesitatingly, a tremor in her voice.

"Now, let us look at our situation squarely," he went on. "Is there any wish you express that remains ungrat-ified?"

"No," she murmured, faintly, "excepting one. You promised to marry me, and—"

"Everyone takes you to be a married woman," he broke in. "Why complain?"

"I am only asking what you promised should be. It's my right. Think of my position before the world," she answered.

He sighed deeply and turned his head away, annoyed. In his agitation he accidentally knocked over the almost empty bottle of wine at his elbow, and it ran in little rivulets over the snowy white cloth, leaving behind a pool that showed blood red on the white, at which he gazed fascinated.

"You will marry me, Billy, won't you?" she pleaded, laying her hand on his arm to arouse him.

"Oh, enough of this!" rudely throwing her aside. "You knew I was a married man since first we met."

"Yes, but later you said you had secured a divorce and would marry me
as soon as possible and—"

"I was a little premature, I confess.
I expected a divorce, but the courts decided otherwise. So, you see, I cannot marry you, even if I wanted to,"
he said, looking up.

The girl's breath came and went in short, hoarse gasps, and she stood with white, staring face, seeming unable to comprehend what he said.

"So you lied to me. You were lying all the time?" There was no shrieking, no anger in her voice, just contempt, keen and cutting. His face colored perceptibly, but he strove
to remain calm and appear indifferent.

"I can't marry you, that's certain,
and, besides, I suppose you have made up your mind not to live with me now,
but I'll provide for you and the—"

The look on her face frightened him,
causing him to stop.

"You'll provide for me! You'll—why, I'd rather beg in the streets than touch a penny of yours."

He tried to speak, but she would not listen. "There is no need of you saying anything more. I wouldn't believe anything you would say. It's plain that all the love you professed for me was nothing but passion. You took advantage of my love and youth, and now—"

He turned to the window and stood looking into the street below.

The sobbing had ceased for some time. When he turned around he found her sitting in an armchair, gazing into the open fire. The agony of mind she had undergone was expressed in the deepened lines about the mouth, and he shrank at the look of pain in her face.

"Annette!" she called, suddenly, in a hoarse, strange voice.

"Oui, madame."

"Fetch my writing materials and get ready to deliver a note."

The ticking of the little Swiss clock could be distinctly heard above the scratching of the pen and the sobs that now and then escaped her. He turned from the window to the sideboard and gulped down a pony of brandy. Crossing to where she sat he stood in front of her and demanded
in an angry tone: "To whom are you writing?"

"My brother," she replied, without raising her head.

The silence fell between them again and continued until long after the servant had returned from her errand, and was fast becoming unbearable.

"Look here, Louise," he said, at last. "I'd like to know what you intend to do?"

"Do!" she repeated. "Oh, yes, what I intend to do! I'm going to—well, you will find out soon enough what I am going to do. You need not worry about me."

"I'm glad you looked at this matter
in a sensible light," he remarked, rubbing his hands with satisfaction. The parting seemed to be coming easier than he had hoped for.

"You see," he continued, when loud angry voices in the hall interrupted him. Evidently some one was trying to forcibly enter in spite of his ser-vant's protests. He raised his eyes to hers in surprise and inquiry.

"My brother!" she said, simply.
"Why did you send for him?" His voice was low, intense.

"Why?" She laughed, hysterically.
"Why? I can see fear creeping into your face, into your eyes. You've lied to me, laughed at me. You've trampled on my love and sacrificed me on

But for all the pain, all the injury you have inflicted on me you are going to pay double. You want to know why I sent for him? I'll tell you why," and she sprang to the door, her nervous fingers inserting the key before he could stop her, and threw it wide open.

"I sent for him to kill you!"

The blood left his face, leaving it almost ghastly in its whiteness. For a moment it seemed the lights had gone out and everything was in darkness.

He was vaguely conscious that her brother had entered the room and that she was pouring forth a recital of her wrongs. Then he suddenly awoke to the danger of his position. He looked the other man square in the eyes, but found no mercy, and his gaze fell to the revolver that was aimed at his heart. He started forward and there came a sudden flash, a puff of smoke,
and he toppled over, his face twisted
in agony, and fell to the floor.

"My God, you've killed him!" cried
the girl, wrenching the smoking revolver from his grasp and trying to push him through the doorway that led to the street.

"You'll come home to us, now?" he said, stopping in the doorway. "No one knows—"

"Later," she interrupted, raising her tear-stained face, the horror of it still in her eyes. "For God's sake, go."

"And you will come?"

"Yes, yes; only go."

"Good-by," he said, simply.

"Good-by," she sobbed.

She heard him cross the landing,
descend the stairs and then he was gone.

When the police arrived they found everything in order. The little canary, high up in his castle by the window,
was filling the room with melody and the little Swiss clock on the mantel still ticked away merrily. The pool of blood-red wine on the tablecloth had extended to the edge and was slowly dripping to the floor, through the little haze of blue smoke, drop by drop. They found her with her arms about his neck, her lips pressed to his.

"Looks like a double suicide," remarked an officer. "I guess—" he stopped as a noise from the mantel gave solemn warning, and the men raised their heads and listened.

The clock struck ten.

TALKED TO THE DULLEST.

How a Famous Scientist Gained Reputation for Cleverness.

A famous scientist whose early home had been in a country district had long promised to visit the scenes of his boyhood and deliver a lecture in aid of the funds of one of the institutions of the place. At last he fulfilled his promise and the lecture was given, says Tit Bits.

When at the close of his lecture he was conversing with some of the principal promoters of the affair they warmly congratulated him on the facility with which he made his rather technical matter interesting and clear to his uncultured audience.

"Oh," said he, by way of explanation, "I invariably fix my attention upon that member of my audience who strikes me as having the least intelligent face, and I continue to explain any subject upon which I touch
until I see by that person's expression that he understands it."

Almost directly afterward the leading public officer of the little town
came into the room and made his way to where the scientist was standing.

"Sir," he exclaimed, "you cannot possibly believe how much real pleasure you have given me to-night. It seemed to me all the time as if your eye was never away from me; that you spoke to me alone, and that your whole wish was to make me understand every word you said."

Oak Tree That Owns Land.

A giant oak tree, which owns itself
and eight feet of ground on all sides,
is one of the unique attractions in Athens, Ga. This tree stands on Dearing street in fashionable Cob-ham, and is within sight of the historical old homes of Benjamin Hill,
Henry Grady and Robert Toombs.
Nearly a century ago Col. W. T. Jackson and father of Chief Justice Jackson of the Georgia supreme court,
went to the courthouse in that city
and had a deed placed on record in which he said: "For and in consideration of the deep love and veneration
I have for the oak tree (giving location) and a great desire that the said tree be protected for all time, I convey to said oak tree entire possession on all sides." The land around the tree has been sold at different times and costly buildings surround it, but the wishes of Col. Jackson as expressed in the deed have been sacredly carried out.

Man Outfought Wildcat.

Unarmed and alone, Thomas Dyke,
a young man of this place, was attacked by a wildcat on Locust mountain, south of here, last night. He had been in Ashland and started to drive home.
His horse stepped on a nail and he put the animal in a stable.

Then he started to walk home, and was on the mountain when the cries of a wildcat alarmed him. A few minutes later he saw the beast ten feet in front of him. The animal finally sprang. He jumped aside and as the cat struck the road he leaped upon it. For several minutes the fight between the wild animal and the man went on. At length by a quick stroke he broke the animal's back.

A physician dressed the several deep scratches on his face and hands,
but otherwise he was uninjured.

DANCER IN OLD-TIME BUNCH OF FEATHERS.

Tuberculosis and Many Minor Ills
Lurk in Its Wake—Only Proper
Way to Sweep a Carpeted Room.

The committee on the prevention of tuberculosis is trying to rid every house of the old feather duster. The recruits in the warfare against consumption have taken up arms against
it. A good deal is heard about street dust and soft coal as a nuisance and as dangerous to the public health,
but we are apt to forget that right in our own homes we often have a danger that is perhaps just as great as either of these. The old-fashioned way of cleaning a room with a feather duster is a real menace to health.
The men who have organized anti-tuberculosis movements have come out with the following public announcement about sweeping and dusting:

"When you sweep a room raise as little dust as possible, because this dust when breathed irritates the nose
and throat and may set up catarrh.
Some of the dust breathed in the dusty air reaches the lungs, making parts of them black and hard and useless.

"To prevent making a dust in sweeping, use moist sawdust on bare floors.
When the room is carpeted, moisten
a newspaper and tear it into small scraps and scatter upon the carpet
where you begin sweeping. As you sweep brush the papers along by the broom, and they will catch most of the dust and hold it fast, just as the sawdust does on bare floors. Do not have either the paper or the sawdust dripping wet, only moist.

"In dusting a room do not use a feather duster, because this does not remove the dust from the room, but only brushes it into the air so that you breathe it in; or it settles down,
and then you have to do the work
over again.

"Use soft, dry cloths to dust with and shake them frequently out of the window, or use slightly moistened cloths and rinse them out in water
when you have finished. In this way you get the dust out of the room.

"In cleaning rooms you should remember that dust settles upon the floors as well as on the furniture, and is stirred into the air we breathe by walking across the floors. You can easily remove all this dust in rooms
which have bare floors, in houses, stores, shops, schoolrooms, etc., after the dust has settled, by passing over the floor a mop which has been wrung out so as to be only moist, not dripping wet."

POINTS ON IRONING LACE.

Well to Remember If You Desire the Best Results.

One of the points to remember when ironing lace is to iron it well to the width, so that the whole design of the lace will show clear and distinct and look as near like the new material as possible.

To do this the lace must be carefully pulled to the width and then placed on the table wrong side up and ironed along the straight edge, holding the lace up in front of the iron so that the toe of the iron may press the lace
to the width and also keep the sel-vedge straight.

Again place the lace flat on the table and iron across the width, pressing the toe of the iron into each point until it is quite dry. If the lace has a raised pattern, a thick piece of felt or three folds of ordinary blanket may be slipped under the ironing sheet and the lace ironed over it. This will raise the work considerably.

Very fine lace should be ironed
through muslin and never touched with the bare metal.

Cold Slaw.

Select a fresh hard head of cabbage, pick off the outside leaves, cut in half with a sharp knife, shave into fine pieces, a board comes for this purpose, put the shreds into a dish
and pour over the following dressing:

Take the whole of two raw eggs,
beat slightly, add half a tumblerful
of cream, stir well then add two tablespoonfuls of good vinegar (unless very strong) stir until it thickens.

Put on the fire in an enameled
saucepan until it comes to a boil, remove from the fire, pour over the cabbage while hot, mix thoroughly and put away to cool. Just before serving season with salt and pepper.

Frothed Chocolate.

To make frothed chocolate for ten or a dozen guests, beat two quarts milk in a double boiler so that there will be no danger of its scorching.
Cook in a saucepan four squares chocolate
with four tablespoonfuls sugar,
four tablespoonfuls hot water or milk,
and a tablespoonful salt. When smooth and shiny add the hot milk gradually, stirring all the time. Then whip lightly with an egg beater and flavor with cinnamon or a teaspoonful vanilla, or a little of each. Have ready a pint of whipped cream, put a tablespoonful in the bottom of each cup, pour the hot chocolate over it and serve very hot.

Peas in Turnip Cups.

Select even sized white Dutch turnips. Peel them and scoop out the center, so that only a shell remains.
Put these in a steamer and cook until tender, but not soft enough to lose their shape. Put a turnip cup on a small plate, fill the center with French peas which have been heated in a rich
white sauce, and surround the base of the turnip with sprigs of parsley.

Table Rock, July 1.—From Table Rock comes the following account of a ball game told in rhyme.
There came to Table Rock on Friday afternoon
The twenty-first day of June,
A bunch from Hunterstown
And to play ball, was just in tune.
Everything was quiet until Table Rock formed a line:
This was the beginning of the hot time
When the Hunterstown captain said
We came for joy
And didn't want you to play anything
larger than a boy.
Each one said Bausley's balls are too
swift for me
Not one can hit them. You will see!
If by accident we do, we are scared to death
And couldn't get to first for want of breath.
After a bit of persuasion they went to bat
They fanned at this, they fanned at that.
At last Mr. Eckert hit one, and yelled,
"Happy land!"
But the ball just went into Beunnie's
hand.
Hunterstown's captain said, we want
some runs or we'll quit
When Captain Plank said no, no, not a bit.
Then Plank said Mr. Umpire give them some runs,
Then they went from bag to bag like
veterans' sons.
By this time the game was warm.
Geo. Raff went to the plate like a bee swarm.
The umpire said strike one, two, three.
Three strikes, no balls, and out goes he.
In base ball, Geo. is a good scholar,
But this caused him to make an awful holler.
He said, this is the first time I ever struck out
And can't see how this came about.
Then there was Bunch on second base
When he got a ball he made a big long face.
He said to play ball he was misplaced
And would rather join in a pig chase.
I must tell you how Ben made his run.
When he got near third he stood like
a stone.
Eckert said, don't let him play the whole game.
Captain said, let him go, he will get his run just the same.
To see Table Rock make double plays
Made the Hunterstown boys stand and gaze.
Their countenance showed they were amazed
And to know how to play ball, they were half crazed.
As the games stand two to one
We ask you to play another just for fun.
Then the games will be tie
And you will have to play another or
we would like to know why.

HOW PARTY WAS PLANNED

Vinegar Branch and Stone Jug.
July 1.—On Wednesday the 18th, ult., Mrs. Daniel Fidler, the worthy wife of our clever neighbor, Daniel Fidler, of this place, proposed to her husband that they pay a visit to their former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wagner, near New Chester, where they spent the day very pleasantly and returned home in the evening. But what was Daniel's surprise shortly after their arrival at home to see their friends and neighbors coming in all directions and among them being the family they had visited during the day. Then the truth flashed upon him. It was the anniversary of his birth and his family had sprung a complete surprise upon him. Daniel surrendered unconditionally and a very pleasant time followed. The following persons were present: Daniel Fidler and wife, Milton Wagner and wife, H. H. Wintrobe and wife, Calvin Dietrick and wife, Solomon Haverstick and wife, Orville Dietzler and wife, Elias Hess and wife, Daniel Sowers and wife, John Fidler and wife, Emanuel Haverstick and wife, Levi Deardorff and wife, Howard Fidler and wife, Mrs. Wallace Snyder, Mrs. Elson Lower, Mrs. Meale, Misses Lottie Wagner, Grace Spahr, Mary Beamer, Effie Wagner, Grace Elholtz, Edna Elholtz, Nan Elholtz, Mary Lower, Maggie Dietrick, Vinnie Elholtz, Mary Snyder, Ruth Snyder, Bess Snyder, Lottie Spangler, Iva Wagner, Katie Sponseller, Mary Bowers, Beulah Vance, Dora Deardorff, Ida Snyder, Estella Tate, Blanche Hollebaugh, Ada Dugan, Laura Dellinger, Sophia Fidler, Lottie Fidler, Grace Fidler, Messrs. Robert McIlhenny, John Elholtz, Frank McIlhenny, Clarence Rauscher, Roy Dugan, John Snyder, Charley Hess, Charlie Thomas, John Noel, Harry Lower, Charlie Snyder, Leo Bean, Charlie Bowers, James Noel, James Howe, John Fidler, Harry Fidler, Wm. Deardorff, Earle Guise, Lloyd Sponseller, Wm. Fidler, Jacob Lower, Robert Fidler, Russell Dietzler.
H. H. Wintrobe and wife visited friends in Myers District, Md., last week.
Miss Eva Tate visited at her brother's, near York Springs.
The corn crop throughout the county seems to have come up very badly. Some farmers have planted their fields over the second time. Unless the season is very good we may expect a poor corn crop this year.
The wheat harvest will be late this season from present indications there will be no grain cut for several weeks in this vicinity. H. H. W.

A BASE BALL TOWN.

Fairfield, July 1.—This community was visited by a heavy rain on last Saturday. The surface of the earth was crops are everything that a sane man could wish for. Never was there a better outlook for potatoes than this year. The present prices will soon be doomed.

Fairfield is getting to be quite a base ball town. Last Friday the "Youths" of Gettysburg played the "Babies" of Fairfield on the latter's ground. The rain stopped the game at the end of the fifth inning with a score of 3 to 0 in favor of the "Youths." The Fairfield team played the Taneytown team last Friday at Taneytown. The score was 7 to 2 in favor of Fairfield. This week promises three games on the Fairfield grounds. Gettysburg and Graceham teams will play our boys on Monday and Tuesday.
An automobile party from Maytown, Lancaster Co., visited Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Mackley on last Sunday a week. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neely and children from Phila., are visiting at Hon. J. U. Neely's.
Misses Alice and Margaret Neely attended the Normal School Commencement last week at Millersville where their sister, Miss Helen, was a member of the graduating class.
Miss Ruth Stimmel, who has been spending some time with her sister, Mrs. C. L. Ritter, left yesterday for Chambersburg.
Mr. and Mrs. Small of York are visiting Mrs. Small's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McGlaughlin.
Mrs. Geo. Wortz of Hanover is visiting among friends in Fairfield and surroundings.
Robert Cunningham, who was teaching during the winter in Baltimore, is home on a vacation. Also Miss Bess Cunningham and Miss Flora Witherow who were teaching near Philadelphia are home for the summer. CNO.

VISIT TO MARYLAND.

Barlow, July 1. Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Black and Miss Myrtle Strick-houser have returned from visiting the former's brother and sister who reside in the vicinity of Sykesville, Md. They also visited the Springfield Insane Asylum of the State of Maryland, which at the present time contains about 700 patients. While it is a sad sight to look upon the faces of so many of those unfortunate people, many of whom will never regain their normal faculties, yet the buildings and equipment justify any one's visit to the place, and they as well as the location, cleanliness of the place and the way the inmates are cared for go to prove the fact that the State of Maryland is doing all she can for those unfortunate.
Crops in the locality they visited are reported similar to our own with the exception of a little more fruit. Farmers are looking forward with bright prospects for a good yield of wheat and rye. Corn is very discouraging, some not up yet and others making no start whatever. Grass short but a good set on the fields and with a little favorable weather promises to yield well. Apples promise a fair yield. Some localities have fair prospects for peaches and cherries but pears and plums will be a general failure.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

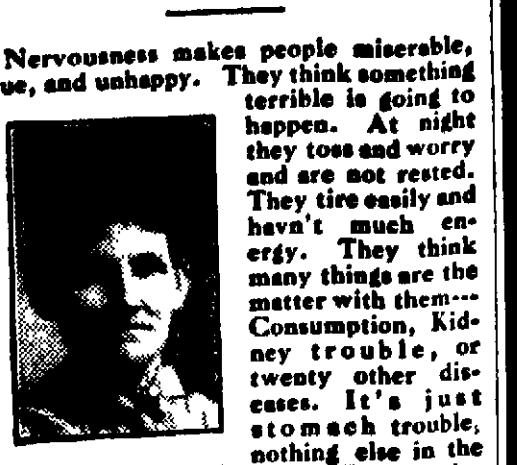

Arendtsville, July 1. George E. Hoffman has excavated the cellar for his new house that he is building in this town.
C. H. Klepper has excavated more cellar space under his additional new store room.
Miss Mary E. Funt, daughter of Howard Funt, of Butler Twp., picked 79 quarts of strawberries in a half day.
The Arendtsville base ball team will hold a festival here on Saturday evening, July the 20th.
The Reformed Sunday school in this place will hold its Children's Day services next Sunday at 2 p. m.
At this writing we have plenty of rain and good growing weather.
Miss Millie A. Lighty has returned home from Hampton, Va., where she spent the last three months at her occupation, trimming hats for the firm of Armstrong, Cater & Co., of Baltimore, Md.
Fulton Gallagher, wife and son, and Mrs. John Gallagher, of Gage, Okla., are visiting relatives and old acquaintances here. They left here several years ago. Mr. Gallagher reports the wheat crop good there, and the corn making a good start. They all like their new home well.
Chas. Starnes, of Tacoma, Wash., Lloyd Warren, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Dr. Jenkins, of Little, were recent visitors here.
P. E. Raffensperger and wife and Mrs. H. C. Lower, were recent visitors among friends at York. P.

NERVOUSNESS.

Nervousness makes people miserable, blue, and unhappy. They think something terrible is going to happen. At night they toss and worry and are not rested. They tire easily and haven't much energy. They think many things are the matter with them—Consumption, Kidney trouble, or twenty other diseases. It's just stomach trouble, nothing else in the world. Two bottles of Cooper's New Discovery will put the stomach in shape in three weeks. I know this because I've seen it tried a thousand times. Then all nervousness will disappear. I know this too, because I've seen it happen a thousand times. Here's a letter I got the other day:
"My system was badly run down and my stomach and nerves in an awful shape. I could not digest my food, was always tired and would often feel faint and dizzy." "I had heard so much of your New Discovery medicine that I began taking it. Relief and strength and happiness were found in the very first bottle and the benefit I have received from it has been truly wonderful. I am no longer nervous, my appetite and digestion are good and I eat everything and sleep well." Mrs. W. J. Schaurer, 220 Guthrie St., Louisville, Ky.

We sell Cooper's New Discovery. It makes tired, worn out, nervous people happy.

People's Drug Store

Oil is the greatest and surest fortune maker the world has ever known. An oil company gets the product from the ground at an expense of about 5 cents per barrel and oil today is worth about $1.75 per barrel.

Robt. Rawlins, an oil expert, after examining the Adams County tract said, "I observed a scum on the surface of the water. It reflected the color of petroleum. A paper spread on the surface of the water where this scum appeared would burn while still wet. The paper must have absorbed oil. A bottle containing a little oil collected from certain springs certainly contained petroleum. I found several of the springs and streams contained gas; this gas I recognized as similar to what I have found in oil fields. Many oil fields of the world have been located by the appearance of oil on the surface of the water. And I believe that there is a subteranean oil strata."

Capital of the Company is 100,000 shares at $5 per share. Only a limited amount of stock is being offered, just enough for development purposes. A quantity of this stock has been sold in Connecticut and other distant points.

Work Has Begun

15,000 feet of lumber is ready for the first derrick. Contract for drilling is closed. Machinery is arriving and it is a matter of days until the drill begins on its voyage of discovery. Preparations have been made to go down about 3,000 feet.

Many Adams County people have invested their money far from home and sometimes lost it.

Here is a chance to spend money to help discover the natural resources of the country and if the drill opens up fortunes you can have the satisfaction of not only having aided in the development of the home county but also enjoying a share in what is found.

A small amount of the capital stock is offered to Adams County people at $3 a share, par value $5, for a limited period.
